

Who is Dolly?

Dolly is the poodle whose world was turned upside down when her family adopted Henry, the three-legged cat. The cat not only took over all the healing attention of the family, but dominated the attention by answering over 33,000 emails responding to Henry's story.

Like many people dealing with complex and difficult feelings and the acute needs of others, Dolly felt invisible. With great courage, and patience, Dolly asks "What About Me?"

By giving a voice to siblings of the 9.4 million sick children in this country, and all of the caregivers who sacrifice themselves in order to help another, Dolly validates their emotions.

Told through Dolly the dog, What About Me? I'm Here Too! speaks of feelings of confusion, insecurity, and loss as the daily life of attention, walks, and treats is taken over by bandages, medicine, and pain.

Dolly's owners learn, as does Dolly, that everyone needs to be told they matter and that they are loved, even when time and energy are dedicated to an acute demand.